

NECBS 2020 Online Conference Program
Saturday, October 10

9:00-9:15: coffee and preliminary remarks

9:15-10:30: Session 1: Panel 1: Policing Violence and Guns:

—Ian Kumekawa (PhD candidate/Postdoc, Harvard): “The Irish Origins of British Gun Control: Colonial Violence and the Firearms Act of 1920”

—Jonathon Booth (PhD candidate, Harvard): “Policing Gun Ownership in Jamaica: 1833-1840”

—Hannah Groch-Begley (PhD candidate, Rutgers): “‘She Screamed as the Bayonet Ended Her Exploits’: Comprehending and Controlling Disorderly Female Violence on the Battlefield in WWI”

10:45-12:00: Session 2: Panel 2: Piety and Politics in Revolutionary England:

—Pádraig Lawlor (Assistant Professor, Saint Leo University): “From Regicide to Restoration: The ‘Anglican’ Road to Monarchical Reestablishment”

—Tanner Moore (PhD candidate, Purdue): “Therefore there can be but one power to oblige, which is that of the Supreme Magistrate”: An Exposition of Edward Stillingfleet’s Doctrine of Sin in the Irenicum”

—Collin Schnakenberg (PhD candidate, Purdue): “The Speaker Restored Sir Edward Turnor, Speaker of House of Commons, as an Agent of the Crown”

—Chair: Tim Daniels (Assistant Professor, Ferrum College, VA)

12:00-12:45: Lunch

12:45-1:30: Session 3: Individual paper: Early Textile Industry

—John Gendron (PhD candidate, Texas Tech.): “The Origins of Market Orientation in Early Modern England’s Textile Industry, 1550-1640”

1:45-3:00: Session 4: Panel 3: Colonial Power and its Limitations

—Thanasis Kinias (PhD candidate, Northeastern): “Britishness and Belonging: ‘Indians’ and ‘Hindoos’ in Early Twentieth Century British Columbia”

—Husseina Dinani (Visiting Assistant Professor, UT Scarborough): “Labor Stabilization and African Mobility in Colonial Southern Tanzania, 1930s-50s”

—Tatenda Matirongo (PhD candidate, University of Zimbabwe): “Colonialism and Medical Pluralism: The Interface between African Indigenous Knowledge Systems and Biomedical Practices of Midwifery among the Shona, 1940s to 1980”

—Chair: Matthew Bowser (Northeastern)

3:15-4:30: Session 5: Panel 4: Sex and Religion in the 20th Century

—Andrew Moeller (DPhil. candidate, Oxford): “A Struggle for the Soul of England: Bishop Theodore Woods and Birth Control at the 1930 Lambeth Conference”

—Kathryn Lamontagne (Lecturer, Boston University): “‘St. John’ and Sex: Radclyffe Hall’s Conservative Catholicism”

4:30-5:30: Wrap-up and committee meeting